Council Asked to Abolish All Slot Machines in City

Although prominent Twin Falls citizens Monday night asked the city council to abolish slot machines, councilmen refused to heed the request and asked why the petitioners had waited so long to protest.

A clergyman and two business men, backed by petitions signed by more than 500 persons, requested that no licenses be issued for 1948 on the ground they would be injurious to the "economy and citizenry of Twin Falls."

"Let us have done with this dirty business," the Rev. Albert B. Parrett, president of the Ministerial association, urged.

He asked the council to return to the operation of the city "on a clean basis" as it had been "in the past."

Mayor Herbert G. Lauterbach and the councilmen pointed out that discussion regarding slot machines has occupied the council's attention for the past six weeks. They expressed regret that protests had not been made before.

Last Monday the council unanimously agreed to collect by taxation one-half of the gross income of all slot machines in the city during 1948. They finally agreed after several weeks consideration to a "sliding tax" on machines of various denominations.

The two hour and 20 minute meeting hardly had begun before Mitchell Hunt, jr., asked the council to "rid the city of this evil." He laid a petition on the table.

The petitions represented a week's work, he said. Thousands more would "willingly" sign, he declared.

"Your action is against the will of the people," Hunt said.

Hunt questioned each of the councilmen as to their individual feelings. He recorded statements on a pad and informed the councilmen "the citizens will be perplexed" by the council's attitude.

Hunt said he, nevertheless, appreciated the councilmen's "difficult situation." But he predicted Twin Falls "morality" will be the loser, and the city's "social organization will be challenged."

He said the council could have the assurance that business men would find other ways of raising the revenue "that is now expected from slot machines." He pointed out "history is replete" with cases of

3 Burglaries Are Reported On Week-End

Twin Falls city police reported Tuesday three burglaries which took place late Friday night or early Saturday morning.

According to the police report, burglars were unsuccessful in two of their attempts and stole $36 in their third break-in.

Nothing was missing although drawers were ransacked in the offices of the General Adjustment bureau, and the Farmers Insurance group, both located at 111 Second street west.

The money was taken from the Camp Fire Girl's office, 114 Main avenue north. Of the $36, a total of $20 was organization money, while the remainder was change which belonged to an individual group, police reported.

In each instance doors were entered by use of a screwdriver, according to police.

Truman Aide Facing Probe On 'Trading'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (UP)—Congressional investigators, armed with full subpoena powers, said today they would make a thorough interested only in getting the facts and not in making the 37-year-old White House medical adviser the "whipping boy" of the grain gambling inquiry.

The President himself remained staunchly loyal to Graham. He authorized a statement that the physician would continue in the White House post he has held since Aug. 1945.

Meanwhile, agricultural officials said the next list of speculators will be released for publication in tomorrow morning's newspapers.

The list will name all wheat traders in the Chicago market, Feb. 28, 1947. J. M. Mehl, commodity exchange authority chief, estimated the list would contain at least 3,100 names.

Chairman August H. Andresen, R., Minn., said his special house committee on speculation would look into Graham's market activities to see if there was "anything unusual about his discretionary account with his broker."

The physician, who was revealed to have speculated in 50,000 bushels of wheat last September, said he had left matters entirely up to his broker and did not know anything about his wheat holdings until Oct. 7. He said he has since liquidated his holdings.

Greece Goes All Out to Halt Rebel Siege on Konitsa

ATHENS, Dec. 30 (UP)—The Greek army threw all its available resources today into an effort to relieve Konitsa, key base of Epirus under fierce siege by 3,000 guerrillas commanded by Gen. Markos Vafthiades.

Knotsa was cut off completely by the guerrilla siege. Its garrison sent urgent appeals for reinforcements. Radio reports said two government battalions still were keeping the Greek flag flying over the town's main buildings.

The guerrilla forces, fighting for Konitsa as a seat for their newly proclaimed communist government, had infiltrated the town. The report that the main buildings still were in the hands of the defenders suggested a penetration of some depth.

Greek warplanes dropped food and other supplies into Konitsa, and joined in the attacks on guerrilla strongpoints ringing the mountain stronghold.

UMT 'Week' Set

BOISE, Dec. 30 (UP)—Gov. C. A. Robins today proclaimed Jan. 5-12 as Universal Military Training week, but asked all Idahoans to "carefully and without prejudice study the matter and register their sentiments with the congress of the United States both as to the type of training desired and the mechanics thereof.

[illegible] consider the problem of [illegible] for our country."

k Of Wholesale Prices Nears

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—Wholesale prices edged nearer today the all-time crest of May, 1920, and government economists say they can find nothing to indicate that 1948 prices will stop there.

With the exception of some items which slowed down the food group at least temporarily, wholesale prices on 900 commodities studied by the bureau of labor statistics sailed unchecked past another post-war mark during the week ended Dec. 20.

An index figure of 162.5 was recorded for that date by the BLS, which uses average prices prevailing in 1926 as its 100, or normal wholesale level. In May, 1920, the bureau says prices averaged 167.2 per cent of the 1926 average. Relating the index points to percentages, there is less than three per cent difference in prices today and those existing in May, 1920.

At the present rate of climb, wholesale prices should top the 1920 hight about the end of February, the economists say—and keep on going in contrast to the experience 27 years ago. Then the index dropped from 167.2 to 96 in May, 1921, just one year later. It struck a bottom of 59.8 in Feb. 1933.

The statisticians say employment holding near the 60,000,000-mark and demand for goods of all kinds appear likely to sustain wholesale prices next spring.

They declare that "political pressures" on both the Truman administration and congress for a halt in the price trend may alter the picture, but they shy away from any opinions on the best approach.

The BLS consumers' price index, described as representing actual cost of living to the householder, already has broken all records. It stood at a peak of about 165 per cent of the 1935-39 average on Nov. 15, the latest available computation.

24 Ship Survivors Arrive in Manila

MANILA, Dec. 30 (UP)—Twenty-four more survivors of the wrecked Danish motorship Kina, including three American women passengers, arrived by air from the central Philippines today and immediately were taken to Santo Tomas university hospital.

The survivors included nine passengers and 15 crew members. None showed any sign of injury despite their night of terror in open boats on a typhoon-whipped sea after their ship sank off Samar island on Christmas night. They were taken to the hospital, however, for a check up.

Sheltered for five days on the Norwegian ship Samuel Bakke at the port of Calbayog on Samar, the survivors were brought by tug to [illegible] this afternoon. From there they were flown to Manila in a specially chartered Philippines airline plane.

"Lone Bandit" Ready To Make Guilty Plea

Marshall Booth, Magic Valley's "lone bandit" was to plead guilty about 3:30 p.m. today to a charge of armed robbery, according to Prosecuting Attorney Everett M. Sweeley.

The charge to which Booth was to enter a plea of guilty resulted from the armed robbery of the Rogerson hotel on Nov. 6, Sweeley said. It was on that date that Booth was apprehended by police following a gun battle in the rear of the Perrine hotel. Booth was armed with a 16 gauge shotgun at the time of his arrest.

A special session of district court was called this afternoon to hear Booth's plea to the armed robbery charge. Judge James W. Porter ordered the session when he was advised that Booth had expressed his desire to enter a plea of guilty rather than to wait for trial at the next session of district court.

The string of holdups attributed to the "lone bandit" started in Jerome on Sept. 7. During the series of armed robberies the Park hotel and the Rogerson hotel each were robbed three times. Other holdups were reported at Buhl, Jerome and Burley.

None of the "lone bandit's" victims were injured in any of the holdups. However, following the robbery at the Rogerson hotel on Nov. 6, Officer Dick Frazier and Chief of Police Howard Gillette were wounded slightly during the gun fight in a small parking area across the alley from the rear of the Perrine hotel. Booth was wounded in one leg by pellets from a shotgun blast fired by Officer A. A. Spence.

Booth has been held in the Twin Falls county jail since his arrest on No. 6.

Sweeley said today that Judge Porter can fix the maximum sentence to be served by Booth after he enters a plea of guilty to the charge of armed robbery. The sentence can range up to life imprisonment, Sweeley declared.

Whisky Curb Orders Given For Distillers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (UP)—The government today ordered whisky production cut down to save grain.

Secy. of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson put all distillers under a grain-use rationing system which will limit grain consumption to 2,450,000 bushels between 12:01 a. m. tomorrow and next Feb. 1.

Anderson issued the order within an hour after President Truman signed the Republican anti-inflation bill. That measure gave the government authority to restrict use of grain by distillers. The authority expires Feb. 1.

"Mere Trickle"

The Distilled Spirits institute said the order will reduce whisky production to a "mere trickle."

The grain allocation for distillers under Anderson's order is about half the amount they used each month this year before the voluntary 60-day whisky-making holiday started Oct. 25.

Anderson said any grain used by a distilling plant during the period from Oct. 25 through today—six days after the holiday expired—will be deducted from the plant's January quota.

"Burden Equalized"

"This will equalize the burden between the plants which have complied fully with the voluntary program and the few plants which failed to comply," Anderson said.

The quota system bars use of wheat.

Under the quotas, about two-thirds of the industry allocation of grain will be distributed on the basis of use during the four months from Dec. 1946, through March, 1947. The other one-third will be allocated on the basis of plant mashing capacity.

CHINA BATTLE TENSE

PEIPING, Dec. 30 (AP)—The crucial battle for Mukden became more tense today as Chinese communist regulars, attacking in strength, battled to points only six and eight miles from the city proper.

GOP Inflation Bill 'Lost,' but Truman Signs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—President Truman today signed a duplicate copy of legislation designed to reduce the cost of living while secret service men sleuthed through the White House for the original.

The President's signature was penned reluctantly at 9:15 a. m. after a hurried scramble to copy the Republican-sponsored measure, which disappeared mysteriously after reaching the White House.

Declaring the nation's economy faces a "grave peril," Mr. Truman said the bill is "pitifully inadequate" to deal effectively with the problem of high prices. But he promised its "meager authority" will be used to the fullest extent.

The copy was drafted hastily after an all-day search failed to turn up even a whereas or a sub-paragraph of the original. It was flown by army plane to Dedham, Mass., last night for the required signature of Speaker Martin, R., Mass.

The President's staff still had no explanation for what Press Secy. Charles G. Ross called "something of a White House mystery." The original bill, last seen on the desk of Presidential Counsel Clark M. Clifford Sunday evening, was lost without trace.

Maurice C. Latta, Mr. Truman's executive clerk and a veteran of nearly a half century of White House service, could recall no similar predicament.

The belated signature set this machinery in motion:

1. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson clamped a war-style limit on the use of grain by distillers.

2. A peacetime priority system was brought to tentative form in the commerce department. Without enforcement provisions, it provides anti-trust immunity to industries which agree among themselves to allocate scarce materials for essential use and foreign export.

Subject to White House approval, the commerce department plans to authorize the use of "VP" (voluntary program) certificates. Served on any firm in an industry which enters a government-sponsored agreement, the certificates would have something like the force of wartime priorities in commanding delivery.

Bush Pilots Save 6 of 8 Crewmen In Alaska Crash

NOME, Alaska, Dec. 30 (AP)—Six of eight crewmen from a crashed B-29 were back to safety today through the heroism of two Alaska bush pilots, but five other men are still missing and feared dead in the frigid wastes of the Seward peninsula 95 miles north of Nome.

The bodies of two men, thought to be members of the three-man parachute team that leaped to the aid of the stricken fliers Saturday night, were believed to have been sighted less than 500 yards from the crash scene. A driver and dog team will attempt to locate them.

An intensive search also will be continued for the pilot and navigator of the Superfortress.

Neither has been seen since they set out together Christmas night, 48 hours after their big ship plowed into the side of a low hill. They told fellow crewmen they would seek aid at the Eskimo village of Shishmaref, 50 miles to the north.

The daring rescue was performed by Frank H. Whaley of the Alaska airline and William Munz of the Munz airline, both of Nome.

Wallace Will Run in 1948 For President on 'Peace And Prosperity' Platform

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace says "I shall run as an independent can date for President of the United States in 1948." He announced he will campaign on a pla form advocating "peace and prosperity" and said both Democrats and Republicans "stand for a policy which open door to war in our lifetime, and makes war certain for our children." Asked if he hoped to be elected as an independ Wallace replied "There's always hope." Wallace's announcement brought a statement from Sen. Glen H. Taylor, D., Ida that he is considering the possibility of running for vice president on a ticket headed by Wallace.

While the Idaho senator said he "doesn't expect" to join Wallace, he added that he does not intend to reject the possibility "at least until they select somebody else."

"I have been tentatively approached and I am giving the matter consideration," he said.

Calling Wallace "a very courageous man," Taylor told reporters that the former vice president will be "called a Russian sympathizer and a fifth columnist but he certainly is fighting the good fight."

Wallace made his announcement in a nationwide radio address last night. A former Democratic vice president and former cabinet officer under two Democratic Presidents, Wallace thus bolted the Democratic party which he had joined despite the background of a staunch Republican family.

He also ended speculation about his political plans—speculation that had been started when he resigned as secretary of commerce at the request of President Truman. The resignation followed Wallace's opposition to Secy. of State James F. Byrne's policy of a firm hand in dealings with Russia.

At the same time, Wallace announced that he had resigned as editor of The New Republic, a weekly publication, but said he will continue as a contributing editor and will write a weekly page after resigning from the cabinet.

The former vice president, who was elected with President Roosevelt in 1940 and then dropped in favor of Harry Truman in 1944, said "thousands of people" had asked him to "engage in this great fight."

At a news conference following his broadcast, Wallace said he would withdraw from the presidential race "should either of the major parties become definitely a peace party before the election." He also said the new party, as yet unnamed, "would support progressive Democratic candidates for congress."

Announcing his decision to leave the Democratic party, Wallace said in his address:

"To those who have come to me asking the conditions of my adherence to the present Democratic administration, I have said 'let the administration repudiate universal military training and rid itself of the wall street-military team that is leading us toward war.'

"My terms to the democratic high command have been well known. By their actions and finally by their words, they have said 'Henry Wallace, we welcome your support but we will not change our policies.'"

Wallace Nods To Taylor as Possible Mate

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 30 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, who announced last night he would run for President as an independent candidate in 1948, said today that Sen. Glen H. Taylor, D., Ida., would be "marvelous" as a running mate.

Wallace told a press conference today that Taylor was one of many persons who have been mentioned frequently as vice-presidential candidates for the "new party."

He said that Taylor and Sen. Claude E. Pepper, D., Fla., "have been most courageous and outspoken particularly in regard to foreign policy," adding that he had "the highest regard for Pepper."

Wallace said he didn't believe he would enter any Democratic primaries but said that he wanted to campaign in as many states as he could. He hoped that his running mate would be "a good speech-maker," he said, in order to share the burden.

"It all depends upon how much I can stand physically," Wallace said.

Such questions as selection of a national headquarters and a name for the new party will be decided at a national meeting to be held in Chicago soon, Wallace said.

The former cabinet member, who will make an address at the Milwaukee auditorium tonight, said that at the moment he had nothing on other candidates but assumed they would be determined "during January."

Taylor Undecided

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (UP)—Sen. Glen H. Taylor, D., Ida., said today he has not decided whether he will be Henry Wallace's running-mate on the third party ticket in 1948.

Advised of Wallace's Milwaukee announcement the former "singing cowboy" said:

"I don't know yet what I'll do. It's a very, very difficult decision to make."

He said that when he decides, he will announce it.

Truman Hope Is Shaken by Wallace Move

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (UP)—President Truman's chances of election to a White House term of his own were endangered gravely today by Henry A. Wallace's decision to run for President next year as a communist-sparked, left wing candidate.

Republican presidential prospects brightened correspondingly.

Political fate will bring Wallace and Mr. Truman into dramatic conflict for the third time in 1948. Mr. Truman nosed Wallace out of the vice presidential nomination in 1944—and it proved that he also won the White House on that vice presidential ballot.

A close associate of Mr. Truman, asked for comment on Wallace's move, replied: "The President doesn't give a damn. Why should he?"

Left wing strategy is to wreck the Democratic party in 1948 by licking Mr. Truman and to spend the following years picking up some of the main pieces for themselves. But not all of the new deal coalition will be going along with Wallace.

Republican leaders were openly joyful. Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, chairman of the executive committee of the Republican national committee, said Wallace's candidacy "assures that which has been apparent to most of us—that Mr. Truman will be defeated and a Republican elected in 1948."

Idaho Demos Predict Small Wallace Help

By United Press

A check of Idaho Democratic party leaders showed today that Henry Wallace will have a hard time finding support in Idaho.

Wallace's philosophy of government was attacked by leaders of both parties, who were not too surprised at his announcement of independent candidacy for President.

Sen. Glen H. Taylor, D., Ida., indicated in Washington recently he might welcome a chance to become Wallace's running mate as vice president.

Former U. S. Senator Charles C. Gossett, Boise, said "Wallace is a lost soul." He added there was no way yet to "tell what this candidacy will do to the Democratic chances."

Republican Gov. C. A. Robins said he was not surprised. "His candidacy will draw attention to those people who support the kind of doctrine Wallace espouses," the governor said.

George Donart, Weiser, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the senate in 1946, said he couldn't "feature anyone supporting Wallace on any kind of a ticket." He said he thought Taylor would "make the biggest mistake of his life to seek nomination for vice president on a third party ticket." Taylor supported Donart in the last campaign.

Robert Coulter, Boise, former state Democratic chairman, said he hoped "Taylor goes along with Wallace as a vice president candidate so the people of Idaho will know what I always have said that Taylor is not now—and never has been a Democrat."

"Oh Dear!" Says Widow of FDR

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (UP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late President, when informed that Henry A. Wallace had announced his candidacy for President on an independent ticket, said: "Does he really think he's going to win?"

Mrs. Roosevelt, reached by telephone last night at Hyde Park, N. Y., was told that Wallace said a vote for him would be a vote for peace and against a policy which is leading to war with Russia.

Mrs. Roosevelt said:

"Oh dear, oh dear."

She said she would have no formal comment on political aspects of the speech.

KING MIHAI I

today announced his abdication from the throne of Romania.

Romania King Quits Throne, 'Republic' Set

BUCHAREST, Romania, Dec. 30 (AP)—King Mihai I, abdicated today and the communist-dominated cabinet immediately declared Romania a "popular democratic republic."

Parliament is now sitting for ratification of these acts.

The 26-year-old monarch returned only recently from a trip to London and Switzerland amid reports that he was seeking government permission to marry Danish Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma.

Departure Reported

It was reported, without confirmation, that Mihai left at 5 p. m. for an undisclosed destination. His father, Carol II, twice renounced the Romanian throne.

Mihai twice ascended the throne of Romania—the first time when he was only 6 years old. He became king then upon the abdication of his father. Carol renounced the throne rather than give up his love affair with red-haired Mme. Elena Lupescu.

Regency Ruled

A regency ruled for Mihai until Carol ascended the throne again after reconsidering his abdication. During World war II, Carol fled the country after the nazi-affiliated iron guard rose to power.

Mihai resumed the throne, and later succeeded in overthrowing Dictator Ion Antonescu in a coup on Aug. 23, 1944. Mihai was honored by the Soviet government with the order of victory for this "courageous act."

Mihai's name was linked with that of Princess Anne, a member of a Danish-French family, during his recent trip to Switzerland. She was in Switzerland at the same time.

Experts Wind up Details on Budget

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (UP)—President Truman's fiscal experts were putting finishing touches today to his new federal budget. Indications are that it will call for an outlay of close to $40,000,000,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Mr. Truman will send his new budget to congress Jan. 6. An outlay of $40,000,000,000 would about match the actual outgo for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Spending this year probably will reach $39,500,000,000—some 000,000 above the President's August revised estimate of $37,000,000,000. Fiscal experts base this on the assumption that congress will pass the Marshall plan by April 1.

Protest Asks For School's New Location

HANSEN, Dec. 30—A more centrally located high school was asked Monday in a protest filed with the Twin Falls county school reorganization committee by the Hansen independent school district, Lee Leichliter, Twin Falls, committee chairman, announced.

The petition was filed at a meeting here in which the proposed reorganization of the Hansen district, Kimberly independent No. 2, Murtaugh joint independent No. 3 and the Excelsior common district No. 23 was discussed.

The Hansen protest also stated that the reorganization plan was not bettering the situation at this time, Leichliter said.

The county chairman announced that the Hansen district wanted to build a new school building and added "it isn't possible now."

"There is also nothing that can be done about a more centrally located high school at present," he said.

Final hearing on the proposed reorganization was being held today in the Twin Falls county court house.

ght in Court Seen on Sale Of S. L. Plant

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—Possibility of court action to determine the right of the American Potash and Chemical company as high bidder for the surplus kalunite plant at Salt Lake City was suggested today by Henry G. Walter, jr., the company's counsel.

War Assets Administrator Jess Larson last week set aside the three bids for the plant, including those of American Potash and Columbia Metals corporation of Seattle and awarded the property to J. R. Simplot, Pocatello, Ida., the low bidder, on condition he meet the offer of American Potash, which bid $752,000. Columbia Metals bid $635,000 and Simplot $625,000.

Larson told Senator Thomas, D., Utah, Simplot had accepted the terms.

Walter told a reporter he conferred with Larson and left with him a statement of his company's position.

"He indicated," Walter said, "that he would consider the statement, but was unlikely to reopen the matter.

"We feel that Larson has switched the rules in the middle of the game, after the cards were down.

"We may decide to take the matter to court though we realize the task of upsetting the administrator's position under such a statute as the surplus property act would be difficult. The law has so many conflicting purposes—the fostering of small business; the control of monopolies, etc.

"This is a government by law, however, not by men, and the administrator's position may be vulnerable."

Larson said, in setting aside the bids, that it seemed desirable to give consideration to small business.

Jan. 15-24 Set For Potato and Onion Boosting

BOISE, Dec. 30 (AP)—Idaho Potato and Onion week today was designated as Jan. 15 to 24 in a proclamation issued by Gov. C. A. Robins, who directed the Idaho advertising commission to give the event nationwide publicity.

Consumer advertising in 43 of nation's markets will get under way Jan. 11 through daily newspapers. D. A. Stubblefield, commissioner of agriculture, said the advertisements will be followed with regular weekly ads.

Produce and grocery trade journal publications already have carried advertisements boosting the two Idaho crops, he said.

Colorful Idaho Potato and Onion week display banners have been sent to grocery retailers and wholesalers throughout the country. Lee S. Haller, commission secretary, said there have been numerous requests for more banners.

C. G. Rice, Idaho advertising commission field man, reported that retailers in the east and south are showing marked interest in the coming Idaho promotion.

Drivers in Area Given Warning on Improper Lights

State police officers stationed in Twin Falls county have warned motorists of the "growing number" of vehicles which are being driven with improper lights.

They urged motorists to comply with regulations which require proper lighting and to avail themselves of regularly authorized inspections.

"Such inspection cards are prime facie evidence of good faith on the part of motorists," State Police Lieut. A. E. Perkins said.

Perkins and State Police Officer M. J. Bays, jr., warned that citations will be given for automobiles "improperly lighted."

Such cars involved in accidents may result in additional citations, they said.

City Council Asked to Ban Slot Devices

persons "who placed money before morals."

After Hunt finished speaking, the mayor asked if anyone else wished to speak concerning slot machines.

Mrs. Mel Dolling expressed regrets at proposing her question in the midst of the controversy. She inquired on behalf of her mother how "tube loaded" jackpots "would be paid off." She was informed jackpots would come out of the "gross."

Cites "Myriad of Problems"

When Mrs. Dolling's question was answered the Rev. Mr. Parrett arose to point out the question "was one of a myriad of problems" that will arise from the city's entry into the slot machine business.

He asked the council "to do the simple and sane thing and be done with this dirty business." He predicted the council's action would cause hard feelings and bring on complex problems.

Later in the meeting the councilmen took time to read over the petitions which Hunt had laid on the desk. Then Mayor Lauterbach polled opinion among the members of the board.

Points to Discussion

Councilman I. E. Nitschke pointed out the matter had been discussed for several weeks before the ordinance was passed. He said "no member of the council approves the machines" but that "opposition was late in forming."

Councilmen H. R. Grant and O. H. Coleman suggested letting the matter run until the end of the fiscal year "unless the supreme court finds them unconstitutional" in the meantime.

When Mayor Lauterbach once again offered the floor to anyone, Jay Merrill, insurance man, said "indigent rolls" were growing because of money flowing into the slot machines.

More Debt Suits

He claimed actions filed in local courts for the collection of debts have been doubled since introduction of the machines. He said small merchants' sales have nosedived since August.

"I believe increased divorce actions can be attributed to them," Merrill said.

Asks Higher Tax

Merrill said he was willing to pay double his present tax rate in order to make up for the loss of anticipated revenue. He said all businessmen would."

When Hunt once again took the floor he termed the machines a "disease and a menace." He predicted the corruption of "trusted" employes, and said the machines could lead to corruption of public officials.

As Councilman T. T. Greenhalgh said "I will never vote for slot machines again," Hunt carefully wrote down each word. Greenhalgh pointed out however the present budget was based on "expected revenue" from the machines.

Mayor Lauterbach, after thanking the citizens for their appearance, summed up the feeling of the council. He refuted Merrill's suggestion, saying that the law prohibits the city from further increasing the tax rate.

"We are sorry you gentlemen did not appear before this," the mayor said.

"I do not believe in local option. If we abolish these machines we would simply isolate ourselves. The proper procedure is to work on a statewide basis. You gentlemen should bring pressure on the state."

In granting 1948 permits to Twin Falls taxicabs companies the councilmen ordered Police Chief Howard W. Gillette to notify P. A. Cargill that he will not be allowed to park his Yellow Cabs on Main avenue.

The councilmen gave Cargill permission to operate five taxicabs, and alloted him the use of two temporary spaces on Shoshone street west.

The councilmen also granted William Daly permission to operate two cabs and the Twin Falls Taxicab company to use three cabs. They granted each firm two temporary spaces in the 100 block of Shoshone street west.

These regulations were made, the mayor said, so that proper adjustments may be made if the council adopts new parking regulations next spring.

The council annexed lot 26 of the Yeatman addition to the city, and began procedure to set up an improvement district to cover the "veterans project."

Nevertheless, the council told Elis Stetler to continue with plans for the construction of a private sewer. Stetler said the group on the project was anxious to build the sewer and that it would conform to specifications.

1948 Seen as Decisive Year In China War

By FRED HAMPSON
Chief of China AP Bureau

SHANGHAI, Dec. 30 (AP)—China, probably the world's most serious infection point of war and want, heads into the new year with growing apprehension that 1948 will be a year of decision.

Mindful of the truism that nothing happens quickly in China, observers still do not believe that the present state of affairs can continue another 12 months without something cracking.

The civil war is no longer a regionalized conflict, such as it was when it was largely in the hands of warlords and limited to certain provinces whose economy was controlled largely by foreign influence or management.

Life Not Undermined

China fought that kind of war for 20 years without seriously undermining her national life.

Now extra-territoriality is gone and the foreigner is pretty much a bystander watching the Chinese themselves throwing China's entire resources into the civil war, and the drain is a thousand times greater.

China is trying to fight this kind of war after being half wrecked in eight years of war with Japan.

Deterioration Too Great

The result? Overall deterioration has been too great to continue much longer. China, with all her timelessness, cannot fight this kind of war for another 20 years. A lot of people do not think she can do it even one more year unless someone is willing to help her pay for it.

The nationalist government cries for foreign aid, which means an American loan without too many strings attached. In the old days of treaty ports and foreign control, the world's big nations often actually competed for the privilege of lending China money. In those days the facilities for supervising such loans existed in China.

Security was available. Economic concessions were the reward.

China on Own

Now China is on her own, and can offer in exchange for such a loan only the nebulous hope that it might keep her from going communist.

Unfortunately for this argument, a great deal of money already has been poured into China since 1945 without stopping communism.

With Chiang Kai-shek's position weakening alarmingly, both in a military and economic sense, a substantial number of people believe the time for final decision has arrived—that the choice lies between a communist China or a return of some degree of foreign control.

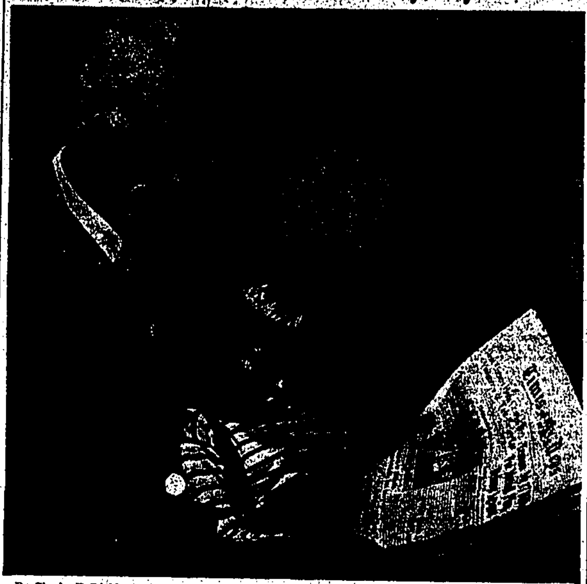
Pioneer Publisher Recalls Early Days Here



Dr. Charles P. Diehl, who is visiting here from California, scans a recent edition of the Times-News while recalling his experiences in publishing the first issues of the News here in 1904. With him is his great-great nephew, Ronnie Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller, Twin Falls. (Staff photo-engraving)

Idle Moments Rare for Past 60 Years In Life of Man Who Pioneered Papers

By JOHN BROSNAN

Had the fates whispered to a 15-year-old printer's "devil" named Charles P. Diehl as he learned to set type on an Iowa newspaper in 1884, their message would have flexed even his youthful fancy.

During the next 60 years, he was to be connected with some 30 newspapers. He was to found and publish many of them, including the Twin Falls News. He was to write three books. He was to become a photographic chemist and be instrumental in creating color motion pictures. He was to be a research chemist and medical man. From each of these endeavors would spring many related efforts to fill to the brim nearly every second of that 60 years.

As Dr. Diehl sat in the home of his niece, Mrs. Bessie Sims of Twin Falls, and told of his life, a listening relative and the Times-News writer would from time to time look at one another quizzically. When Dr. Diehl, who at 77 is as quick and alert as a much younger man, got up to answer the door, the relative commented, with a note of awe, "The only thing I can figure out is that he was one of these 24-hour-a-day men."

Far from being retired, Dr. Diehl is now research chemist of a large corporation. He is here from Maywood, Calif., to be with relatives during the Christmas season.

Every facet of Dr. Diehl's career is a story in itself. And then there are stories within the stories. Readily admitting that "once a newspaperman, always a newspaperman," he is a writer's dream as the subject of an interview. His mind, trained as a scientist and reporter, is an indexed catalog of names, dates and places that for others have dropped into the limbo of forgotten things. Frequently, he intersperses his recollections with, "I was the boy who did it." In appearance, too, he is a "natural," for he resembles George Barnard Shaw outwardly.

A backdrop for that portion of Dr. Diehl's life most closely identified with the early days of Magic Valley, his journalistic pursuits portray newspapering as it was done in those days of rough and tumble publishing.

His first job as printer's "devil" was on the Independent, a weekly published by his brother, Isaac E. Diehl, and a partner, John Clark at Gravity, Ia. Here he learned the trade. Then he went to the county seat at Bedford (Taylor county), Ia., when the Independent was consolidated with another sheet. He stayed there until the winter of 1886. Later he went to work for the New Republic, a prohibition paper published at Lincoln, Nebr., as a compositor.

With a touch of pride, Dr. Diehl told of how his inexperienced hands set galleys of type, letter by letter, that came back marked "o. k." by the proofreader. "I was a real humdinger and was setting out to make a name for myself," he chuckled.

Seeking experience without the gamble of buying a paper, he later leased the Bennett News at Bennett, Nebr.

"That's when I got my real initiation as a newspaper man," he commented, hinting that all was not sweetness and light in making a pioneer newspaper run.

Next we find him publishing the Haxtum (Colo.) Herald, then leasing the Fairfield, (Nebr.) Herald.

"I remember hiring a man named William M. Maupin as compositor. Later he assisted William Jennings Bryan in publishing The Commoner," Dr. Diehl recalled.

In 1888 and 1889, Dr. Diehl established the Norman News and the Roseland Bee at Roseland, Nebr. When these were sold, he started the San Juan Independent in Aztec, N. M.

The year 1890 found the young man on the Haigler (Nebr.) Republican, but he heeded the call, "Go West!" and came to Salt Lake City that year while his brother was city editor of the Salt Lake Herald. There he assisted in setting up the job printing department.

Idaho first felt the impact of this vigorous pioneer in 1892 when he hit Paris to take over the Bear Lake County Independent. This was later consolidated with the Montpelier Observer.

Hinting that politics was good newspaper copy in those days, Dr. Diehl said with a twinkle in his eyes: "The paper there must have been good, because the Republicans won the election. It was the only paper around there that cut much ice."

After brief sojourns back into Salt Lake City and Sandy, Utah, thence to Payson and Eureka, Utah, he wound up operating the Mammoth (Utah) Record, a publication designed to boost a mining boom.

"Then I decided I wanted to be a pioneer again. I went to Kemmerer, Wyo., and established the Kemmerer Camera. We named it that because it sounded euphonious."

After a stay with the Diamondville News in Wyoming in 1896, he went back to Chicago to attend the Dutton medical school until 1901.

Itching for the traces again, he came back to Idaho in 1901 and 1902. At Idaho Falls he burned the midnight oil printing a book he had written on "Health and Breath Culture," putting out the Idaho Falls Times and printing under contract the Idaho Falls Socialist and a Methodist magazine.

During the brief interlude before linking his life with the destinies of Twin Falls and Magic Valley, Dr. Diehl attended the Illinois College of Photography at Effingham (on the banks of the Wabash). He kept in trim by studying photography in the daytime, teaching photo-engraving at night.

Then in 1904, he bought the necessary type and equipment at Salt Lake City and freighted it into Twin Falls where he was editor, reporter, manager, printer, pressman and general putter-outer of the News.

The regular 1,000-copy press run wasn't as bad as providing the some 8,000 "extras" requested by the Twin Falls Investment company to serve as "Chamber of Commerce" literature in publicizing this new country.

"I don't see how we did it, but we did," Dr. Diehl mused. "But in those days it wasn't a question of 'Can you do it?' It was just, 'It has to be done.'"

Dr. Diehl recalls vividly autographing the first copy of the News as it came off the press and handing it to the late I. B. Perrine, "father" of the Twin Falls tract.

Indicative of Dr. Diehl's rich literary background and prophetic in its message was this verse he composed for an early issue of the News:

> "I am the plain, barren
> Since time began
> Yet do I dream of motherhood
> When man one day at last
> Shall look upon my charms
> And give me towns
> Like children for my arms."

After selling the paper in 1905 to the Twin Falls News Publishing company, young Diehl was still going strong. He established the Burley Bulletin and the Oakley Eagle, publishing both at Oakley and hauling the Burley papers into that community by wagon.

Later he returned to Twin Falls to concentrate on carrying out the desire of C. B. Hurt of Clinton-Hurt and company that the job printing department of the News be equipped to put out the finest printing in the state. With a note of pride, he tells of the time and effort directed toward this objective and of the satisfaction in results obtained.

Next, the young dynamo was foreman of the mechanical department of the Gooding Leader. Then he leased the Shoshone Journal, and finally established the Hollister Herald in 1908. This he later sold and bought the Glenns Ferry Gazette. Before going to Utah to take charge of the Bingham Bulletin in 1913, he established the King Hill News and later the Bliss News.

His purpose of going to the Bingham Bulletin post was to "pull the paper out of the hole."

"We did," he remarked.

Then in 1915, the Diehl career veered from newspapers to photography. In Los Angeles, he established the Callos Photo Press concern where he contributed to advancement of photography. Later he was to assist in developing of the process for color photography in motion pictures.

As indicated by Dr. Diehl's attendance at the Illinois photography school, this art was nothing new to him. He recalls fondly the hours spent with Clarence E. Bisbee, noted early-day photographer, in capturing on photographic plates the many virgin wonders of what was to become Magic Valley.

Dovetailed into these and other endeavors was writing and in some cases actually printing his three books—the one on "Health and Breath Culture," another on dietetics and a third, "Jehaushua" or "The Life of Christ."

He has also managed to become an accomplished pianist and organist.

"We can't live without music," Dr. Diehl observed.

Displaying the wit that stood him in good stead when he worked at one time as a newspaper paragrapher, he related an incident that occurred in California. He knows Hugh Herbert, the movie comedian, who told of one hectic day on a movie set in Culver City during the silent era. Everything had gone wrong and the actors and set men were on edge, so the director tried to smooth over the situation by asking the band to play.

"The song played was 'The End of a Perfect Day' and it was so incongruous it struck everyone funny. They wound up laughing instead of scrapping," Dr. Diehl chuckled.

Perhaps his sense of humor, plus his knowledge of healthful living and an indomitable desire to learn and advance, give Dr. Diehl the mental attitude at 77 of a much younger man. In looking for new worlds to conquer, he is devoting most of his energies to the field of research chemistry wherein he believes lie vast potentialities.

Third Parties In Past Have Taken Beating

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—Third parties in American politics have, on occasion, swung presidential elections but they have been notably unsuccessful in electing their own candidates.

In 1844 James G. Birney, an anti-slavery Kentuckian, ran as a Liberty party candidate and polled enough votes so that Henry Clay, Whig, lost New York state to James K. Polk, Democrat. This gave Polk the presidency.

A Democratic split in 1860 has been credited with the election of Abraham Lincoln. Regular Democrats nominated Stephen A. Douglas but a southern pro-slavery group split off and named John Breckinridge of Kentucky. Together they polled more votes than the Republican Lincoln.

Again in 1884 a split—this time Republican—caused an overturn. A dissident group of Republicans—the Mugwumps — worked for Grover Cleveland, Democrat. While their actual strength has been in dispute all these years, Cleveland beat James G. Blaine in New York state by a little over a thousand votes, with another 40-odd thousand ballots divided between John P. St. John, Prohibitionist candidate, and Benjamin Butler, of the Greenback party.

In 1912, the split in the Republican party, with the bolt of Theodore Roosevelt, gave Democrat Woodrow Wilson the presidency although he did not poll as many votes as did Roosevelt and Republican William H. Taft combined.

In 1924, Robert M. LaFollette and Sen. Burton K. Wheeler revived the Progressive party, as Theodore Roosevelt's bull moosers were formally named, and polled nearly 5,000,000 popular votes but only 13 electoral votes—Wisconsin's.

The last third party ticket—as distinguished from such durable but comparatively weak groups as the Socialist, Communist and Prohibition parties—appeared in the 1936 election. Called the Union party and led by William Lemke, it failed to win a single electoral vote.

Embellished

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—The official title of the Marshall plan—European recovery program—is getting the usual Washington embellishments.

The contraction—"ERP"—was bad enough.

Then Rep. Bartel J. Jonkman, R., Mich., christened it "BERP"—short for Bipartisan European recovery program.

Now some state department wags are calling themselves "Twerps"—technical wizards on the European recovery program.

PRIZES OR LOWER PRICES?

Competition, that half-forgotten relic of the buyer's market, is due to play a return engagement. That is the prediction of Modern Industry, which is a pretty reliable pulse-taking magazine of industrial management.

In its annual forecast of business prospects for the coming year, the publication has this to say: "Competition will get really rough. Manufacturers will turn on the heat with more advertising, contests, premiums, demonstrators, fancier retail outlets, packages, displays and better-trained salesmen."

In another section of the forecast, the magazine predicts that the production manager's problems will be less difficult in 1948. "New equipment will be on the job, labor productivity is rising, materials-flow will be less erratic and management methods are smoother." Elsewhere, in discussing labor relations, the forecast states: "With less radicals across bargaining tables, collective bargaining will be smoother."

Those two paragraphs may seem to have little connection. But let's take a couple more items of reading matter and see what it all adds up to.

A recent survey shows that many prospective automobile buyers are giving up in despair or disgust. A year ago, one out of three car owners told the pollsters that they intended to turn their present auto in on a new one. This year the proportion is one out of six. High prices and slow deliveries were the reason given for the decline.

At the same time the trend toward "turning on the heat," in the manner described by Modern Industry, seems to have started. At least we notice that one automobile manufacturer has announced a contest with a six-figure payoff in cash and prizes.

The total cost of that contest won't mean much to a big industry, even figuring it probably will take more than the amount of total premiums to advertise and run the show. But if the trend in competition is toward more ballyhoo, in and out of the auto industry, a lot of customers are going to be disappointed.

They are going to wonder what has become of the old fashioned, once-admired practice of trying to market as good a product as one's competitor, at a lower price. Maybe it is a casualty of progress and the give-away radio quiz show.

If productivity is going up, if collective bargaining will be smoother and 1948 methods and management more efficient, wouldn't it be nice if manufacturers gave thought to increased production and lower prices? They might entice back those discouraged would-be buyers of cars and other products.

That is an idealistic suggestion, we know. Basic industries like steel and coal aren't going to run prize contests or wrap their products in fancy packages. New wage demands and higher freight rates are in the offing. Aid to Europe is likely to cause some shortages. And even a general price reduction probably wouldn't have much effect on food costs.

Yet we think most people would like to see reviving competition take the form of price reductions instead of more window dressing. They might even settle for price stability.

ACT NO. 1—POLITICS

The curtain has gone up on the first act of the big show which reaches its climax in the election campaigns of 1948.

With all the political ballyhoo at their command, both Republicans and Democrats are trying to make capital of this opening act which for want of a better name, we'll title "Speculators in Grain."

At last, they would make it appear, a scapegoat has been found for high prices, inflation, and all the other abnormal conditions which have followed the war. The "market gambler" is the big, bad wolf!

All of which, to our way of thinking, is a big laugh—a "fast one" which the politicians are trying to slip over on the American public.

They are attempting to make it appear that this so-called "gambling on the market" is something new, although buying and selling wheat "long" and "short" has been a common, legitimate practice in this country for scores of years.

Apparently it all started off with Harold E. Stassen, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, charging that "government insiders" have been profiting by speculation in commodities.

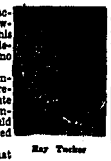
Although speculation is legal, President Truman come forth with another blast against "gambling" in grain. The Republicans have retaliated by revealing that the President's personal physician is one of the "offenders." Even Governor Maw of Utah, a Democrat, has been smeared because of his dealings in the grain market.

If this is all our two major political parties can offer in the way of a solution to the serious problems with which we are confronted, our country surely is in one hell of a mess.

Some people achieve greatness, some are born great and some just grate on you.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—War Assets Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn fingered gingerly but joyfully the $33,000,000 check which the Aluminum Company of America had tendered him in its bid for a government-built plant at Chicago that it wanted to fit into its peacetime industrial structure.



Ray Tucker

The revenue from such a transaction might temporarily silence growing congressional criticism of his agency's liquidation of property designed for winning the war, but no longer needed for that purpose.

When he consulted Attorney General Clark, however, he was reminded that the war surplus statute forbade any disposition of government holdings in a way that would tend to create or strengthen alleged monopolies.

New dealish aides recalled that the late Franklin D. Roosevelt had hailed anti-Hitler industrial expansion as a means of breaking the so-called "trusts" by bringing the Kaiser, Reynolds and Higgins interests, to mention only a few, into the field of large-scale production.

WAR—Reluctantly, General Littlejohn returned the biggest check he had ever seen to Alcoa, and sold the plant at a much lower figure to the Reynolds people. It is probable that no ex-army officer save the indicted "Bennie" Meyers had ever seen that kind of money.

This human-interest incident has current importance now because it seems that other government agencies, notably the reconstruction finance corporation and the army-navy munitions board, are not so eager to carry out the intent of the anti-monopoly provision of the war assets law, or to fulfill FDR's purpose. Moreover, it is charged that those agencies are tossing away assets which might be essential in any prospective conflict with a foreign power.

The inside story also assumes unusual timeliness because of the utter failure of the recent London conference of foreign ministers, the Marshall report on the reasons for the crack-up of all peace plans and the not-so-cold war in which the United States is now engaged with Russia.

INDEPENDENCE—During the war the government advanced more than $20,000,000 for the construction of four plants designed to produce aluminum from several processes that used domestic clays as a base.

With this material so essential for manufacture of planes and many other weapons, the underlying purpose was to end our dependence on British Guiana bauxite, a more efficient base for aluminum, but a supply which could be cut off at any time by enemy submarines.

There were other considerations in this expansion. Alcoa, for instance, had a virtual monopoly on the British Guiana source, as well as on domestic supplies of bauxite. As the bureau of mines pointed out, in view of an increasing, postwar demand for the lighter metal, "it is only by the continued operation of such plants that methods are improved and means found which will fit them into our peacetime economic security.

Although none of the four plants got into production before the capitulation of Germany and Japan, which came sooner than even the military and industrial planners expected, all the evidence shows that it was intended to continue experimentation for possible commercial use of a product manufactured wholly from domestic ingredients, even though at the moment production costs ran higher than aluminum made from imported bauxite.

HASTE—Three of the war plants were disposed of almost overnight after V-J day, with both secrecy and haste. On and off capitol hill the suspicion has been aroused that there was too much of both.

The procedure with respect to surplus property is for the RFC to notify the army-navy munitions board and war assets that certain federal holdings are no longer needed for government purposes and are, therefore, in the category of surplus. If the A-N agency feels that they are required for national defense, it keeps or leases them with requirements that they be kept in a stand-by state.

The army-navy group, however, had no use for the first three plants placed in their custody. They sold a plant at Salt Lake to the J. R. Simplot company of Caldwell, Ida.; one at Harleysville, S. C., to the Giant Portland Cement company of Philadelphia, one at Salem, Ore., to the Columbia Metals company. None of the buyers intend to experiment with aluminum manufacture.

SIGNIFICANT—Opponents of this liquidation program think it significant that the chairman of the committee on aluminum production of the aluminum and magnesium advisory committee of the army-navy munitions board is I. W. Wilson. They think it even more pertinent that he happens to be vice president of the Aluminum Company of America.

In charges which may eventually be laid before a federal court, they will try to make the point that Wilson was chiefly responsible for the hurried disposition of prospective Alcoa competitors' plants to companies which do not intend to make aluminum. They will also contend that the munitions board, as well as the RFC as reorganized, serves private rather than national interests.

ACTION—The RFC and munitions board, however, caught a Wyoming tartar when they moved to liquidate the Monolith Portland Midwest company at Laramie, Wyo. Just as it was about to get into production, Monolith got a stop order from the RFC which then proceeded to place its property in the hands of the munitions board for final disposal.

But the Monolithic people demonstrated that they weren't fooling when they incorporated under that name. They obtained an injunction from a federal court prohibiting any removal or sale of their machinery by or to the munitions board. On the basis of wartime promises and advances, including documents from the bureau of mines, the war production board and the scientific organization which hatched the atom bomb, they are going to fight an attempt to scrap their plant.

The trial of this action is set for hearing in the federal court at Los Angeles on Jan. 27, 1948, and the whole question of national defense and alleged monopolies' postwar status may be fought out there. Meanwhile, the RFC has indicated that it would like to compromise the litigation in order to avoid a legal showdown.

In view of these circumstances, General Littlejohn sometimes wishes that he had accepted that Mellon check for $33,000,000.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

NO USELESS MARTYR

Walter E. Davis, who lost a hand in the fighting in France, worked for the veterans administration. When he was told, together with his fellow employes, to sign the required loyalty pledge, he refused. He said he thought the government was going too far. Then when he found that communists and the radical fringe were capitalizing on his act, he signed the pledge, and—note this—resigned his job.

Unless Mr. Davis was really prepared to make a test case of himself, we are inclined to question his judgment (not his integrity) in at first refusing to sign. We may doubt the wisdom but not the right of the government order. The best way, usually, for an honest objector to meet such a situation is to protest and to comply. A wise man once said, "It's fine to be a martyr—but not a useless martyr."

But, having refused, he resolved a typical dilemma of many honest liberals with admirable courage and directness. He at once freed himself from embarrassing allies and from any appearance of surrendering under pressure. The story in its entirety spells character. If the VA doesn't want him now, we'll bet somebody else will—and quick.—Christian Science Monitor.

POT SHOTS

THROWN FOR A LOSS

Horses are a sore point with Verne Thomas these days. Especially if they happen to be addicted to jumping, so we hear. And the next time Verne borrows a nag, if there is a next time, we'll wager he inquires about the critter's good and bad points.

But we're getting far ahead of ourselves. Just about the same distance Verne was ahead of his horse Sunday.

It seems he borrowed a horse from Claude Detweiler and rode blithely away. Then he came to one of those pole gates and started to dismount, with the idea of taking down the poles, leading the hoss through the gate and remounting.

The horse had other ideas. Just as Verne started to dismount, the nag went OVER the pole gate. Seems the horse is a jumper accustomed to going over pole barriers. That knowledge didn't help Verne much when he picked himself up.

ANY OLD SEWERS

Dear Potso:

Do you suppose Santa Claus had some old sewers lying around that he could have brought us for Christmas?

We live only three blocks from Addison and have been in the city limits for several years. We've signed petitions, gone before the city fathers and tried almost everything else, but we're still stuck with that little building which is such a temptation for Halloween tricksters.

If anyone has any old sewer lines he wants to give away, we live in the 300 block on Quincy street.

DIRTY TRICK

Dear Potso:

This little line made my scalp crawl when I noticed it at the end of Inez Puckett's Life in Magic Valley recently:

"If thine enemy wrong thee, buy each of his children a drum."

To me, that's a long way from the policy of "doing unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Question: Did Inez Puckett ever try to do anything except hold her ears in a house where a kid is operating a drum?

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

In response to the clamor of those who would like to know more about Pegler, the man, something warmer and moister than the biographical data, I have persuaded myself to say a few words about my pets.

Westbrook Pegler

First, however, I should like to dispose of a report now current which, like the facts of life, is quite wholesome considered properly, but capable of wicked or, at best highly unpleasant meaning to an evil mind.

To face it frankly it seems to be quite true that, through the Westbrooks, I am related to the Franklin D. Roosevelt family.

Several years ago this report was received in a leering, anonymous letter which charged further that Robert R. McCormick and Joseph Medill Patterson—the McCormick-Patterson axis, you know—also were related to that great, courageous leader, and to me.

I couldn't make up my mind whether the charge was intended to disparage the McC-P axis and me or Mr. Big and his loved ones or to conjure a plague o' both your houses. That, incidentally, is the correct Shakespearean form, as I am sure Gene Tunney will affirm, by contrast with that sloppy approximation that Mr. Big tossed off at his press conference that time when he estranged John L. Lewis.

Lewis, who drips quotations, Biblical and Shakespearean, and dumbfounds the muscleheaded clowns of the union racket who attempt to bandy memory-gems with him, probably was incensed as much at Franklin for his inexactness as for his own public belittlement. This is one of those days when I run out of time taking a long wind-up and throwing to first and get called on account of darkness and have to finish up tomorrow.

In a spirit of jovial irony I sent this letter to Captain Patterson, who was unpredictable. So instead of scrawling across it "When you say that, smile," and returning it to me—what did he do but hire a genealogist to run it all down?

I had forgotten all about it until one day there dropped down on my desk a family tree such as you have seen in the end-papers of books on Henry the eighth and Louis the XIV, bearing the professional cachet of a man learned in such research.

It held that we were indeed all members of one great and occasionally illustrious family. We include among our kinnery George Washington and, by tenuous tracings, most of the Presidents down to Lincoln and then, of course, after a jump, Theodore Roosevelt, and the Astors and Vanderbilts as well.

That precise honesty for which I am noted makes me admit that I take some comfort in the statement of Mrs. Roosevelt—my cousin, Eleanor, that is—that, although we are a lively and somewhat robustious family, given to contrariness and quarreling, nevertheless, in the great crisis of life, we close up like a fist in a common defense.

The occasion has never yet occurred, but this has given me to feel that in any swirl of ugly passion, in any swell cafe or low resort, I could count on the help of Cousin Elliott, a handy man to have around, I have been told.

More explicitly, I was told this one day by a man once invited to the White House for lunch.

As he stood there in a little room amid the happy family, with Mr. Big at a desk and my cousins, Eleanor and Anna, chatting unconcernedly, Elliott and his Uncle Hall, my cousin, too, you see, were threshing enormously about the floor, knocking over fern-stands and a Rand-McNally geographical globe in a friendly facsimile of Strangler Lewis and Chief Chewocki.

Cousin Hall was a lot of man in a fight or frolic, but my friend, the luncheon guest, reports that Elliott had just got his head under the rungs of a chair when Eleanor said, serenely, "Boys, lunch is served."

This and other chat about the home-life of my cousins put me in mind of the winsome circle in a comedy called "You Can't Take It With You" some years back. The luncheon guest said that throughout the meal the old man was trying to tell some story, but that the kids and Hall hollered him down with wild schemes for making a lot of money.

He never could break through their service, although, when he went on the air, people by the million listened and some would hiss you if you sneezed.

Make a lot of money. Can't miss. Corner the market on hose nozzles; corner the market on umbrella-handles. Patent on pre-striped paint, red, white and blue, for patriotic occasions. White House brand martinis with pop's John Hancock on the label. Hyde Park brand hot dogs—the kind the king and queen ate. Hundred thousand shares, no par value. Bond issue. Barney Baruch. The salt, please. Thank you.

In the play there was a girl who was studying toe-dancing and was always putting her foot on the table and touching her forehead to her knee. And a boarder—Harry Hopkins to the life—popping in and out of the cellar where he was inventing a sort of atomic firecracker for the Fourth of July that blew up the house in the third act.

And Old Gramp—that would be my cousin, Forbes Morgan, the uncle of my cousin Eleanor—who told the fellow from the internal revenue that he had never paid his income tax because he didn't believe in it. Old Cousin Forbes was just like that.

I don't know just how Captain Patterson took it. His note was noncommittal. But some time afterward I got a note from Colonel McCormick which began "Dear Cousin Westbrook—"

He has got no kids. Could he be fixing to leave me the Chicago Tribune? Then I would have to mess around with that dizzy golden gloves and the all-star game and learn to spell freight-train "fratetrane." As bad as being a cousin of Henry Luce and he leaves me Time when he dies and I have to learn to think backward and start sentences in the middle like a dam kraut.

"Sick yesterday mit a katzenjammer already vos Leopold Schultz, beetling, balding, olding—."

To hell with it. Drive you crazy. I don't want to be any cousin to Henry Luce. Except, of course, that would make me a cousin to Clare. I will have to think that over.

BOB HOPE

America's annual madness is on—the rush for Rose bowl tickets. I won't say it's going to be hard to get into the Rose bowl this new year's, but the first 11 people in line were the Michigan team.

Bob Hope

But it really isn't difficult to get tickets through the regular channels. They're on sale at Samoa . . . you have to swim out there to get 'em. The survivors of whoever drowns nearest to the islands get the tickets.

Just to show you how valuable those pasteboards are, I saw the holder of a Rose bowl ticket and the holder of a winning ticket on the Irish sweepstakes swap, even up.

Everybody wants to get into that bowl. I saw one gopher give another gopher eight kernels of corn for a hole under the 50-yard line.

There was a report that counterfeit Rose bowl tickets were in circulation, so I've been more careful. In fact, I've been so cautious I don't burn the basement light anymore.

But it's no wonder. That game has attracted worldwide interest. The Rose bowl committee even got an offer from Amsterdam, Holland . . . they want the winner for a tulip bowl game.

But I haven't missed a Rose bowl game in 10 years. In fact, I've sat through so many games, I've almost got the branch worn out.

On the SPORT FRONT With YOSS

(The Pudgy One)

"The fishermen in the Magic Valley don't know how lucky they are!" Burton Perrine, the former state fish culturist, shouted at Ye Olde Sport Scrivener the other day, as he shoved a newspaper clipping into the pudgy one's hand. "Just read that . . .!"

The clipping was from the Boston Post and was sent to Burton by J. Martin, a former resident of the Blue Lakes region who now lives in Troy, N. H. It read:

"The Danvers Fish and Game club will hold its annual ladies' night at the Masonic temple. The report of the trout pool committee shows an example for other clubs. Number of trout stocked this year, 950; fish caught, 1,802; number of fish kept by anglers, 654. Which means that more than twice as many fish were caught as were stocked this year, and that only two-thirds as many fish were kept as were stocked. Averaged out, the facts are that each member caught 25 fish, kept 11 and fished 18 times. Pretty good management."

The story gave Perrine a great big laugh.

"Imagine any one around here going fishing 18 times and coming back with only 11 fish?" he asked. "Why they'd throw their poles into the river and swear off for good."

That reminds YOSS of a story that he heard the other day—just after he published a picture of Tony Federico with the striped bass that he snared around Sacramento on a trip to the coast.

"I'll bet I know a woman who has caught larger fish and more pounds of fish than Federico last summer," a gent remarked.

The ancient word puddler got inquisitive and the gent wasn't long in satisfying him.

"She's Mrs. Ray Henry over at Eden. I don't know exactly how many fish she caught or the total poundage, but I do know that she came home from Oregon with two salmon that weighed 28½ and 31½ pounds."

While discussing women in the sports world, it might not be amiss that to reveal that, while the Twin Falls women bowlers are slightly under their performances of last season, members of their sex are still going strong in the kegling game in other parts of the country.

Phyllis Vogel, Los Angeles, had a 204 average for 33 games, while Dorothy Meyer of the same city has 194 for 30. However, the nation's star performer is Van Mikiel of Detroit, who has a 192 average for 33 games in one league and 190 for 36 in another.

Three women have broken into the "700" circle. They are Marion Ludewig, Grand Rapids, Mich., with 719; Flo Larson, Oakland, Calif., with 704, and Louanna Early, Indianapolis, with 700. Miss Ludewig also had 674.

Fourteen bowlers have rolled games of 277 or better with the top achievement being a 300 game by Margo Beaney, Victoria, B. C., while Eva Williamson, Indianapolis, had a 298.

A year ago at this time, Mrs. Kay Hoover had a highest total in the west, but so far this year not a single Twin Falls woman has broken into the 600 circle.

AND THAT'S THAT FOR NOW, except: Dozens of Magic Valley residents will see the Rose Bowl game but Johnny Wells, enroute back from a Florida vacation, probably will be the only one to take in the Sugar bowl classic at New Orleans.

Husky Skiers Leap to Lead At Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY, Dec. 30 (AP)—The University of Washington ski team pulled into a slight lead over the defending champion University of Utah Redskins as the second day's events in the annual intercollegiate ski meet ended. Washington had amassed 549.7 points to Utah's 549.

Jack Valentine, Middlebury college, won the slalom race today covering the two obstacle courses in 73.4 seconds. Mary Alice Peel, Washington State, and Sally Neidlinger, University of Colorado, tied for first in the women's race with a time of 81.8 seconds.

Focus will be centered tomorrow on the five-mile cross country race which will begin on Galena summit, 25 miles northwest of here, at 11 a. m. The jumping events will be held Wednesday on Rudd mountain at Sun Valley.

Valentine whipped down the two slalom courses only one and two-tenths seconds ahead of William Farrell of the University of Utah, who took second with a time of 74.6. One salom course had 24 gates and the other 23 gates.

Gar Robertson of the University of British Columbia tied for first place in the first course but ran into trouble on the second course and finished up in 37th place.

The race was run on six inches of newly-fallen snow and skiing conditions were termed "excellent" by tournament officials. A field of 47 men competed and three were disqualified. Official times were posted by tournament officials for five women.

Other results in the men's race:

3. William Dunaway, Washington U., 8 seconds. 4. Arnie Teasdale, University of British Columbia, 75 seconds.

HOW TO SKI, No. 1: Harnessing Gravity Principle of Sport

(Otto Lang, author of these "How to Ski" articles, is an international skiing authority and executive director of the Sun Valley, Idaho, Ski School)

By OTTO LANG
International Skiing Authority

SUN VALLEY, Dec. 30 (AP)—It is a well-established scientific fact that what goes up must come down. Skiing, as a sport, is built upon this principle. Consider two slippery slats of wood, placed on a sloping and slippery surface, such as a snow-covered hill. The skis will inevitably begin to slide.

* * * *

OTTO LANG

Their unerring tendency is to seek the straightest and shortest line down the hill, simply obeying the law of gravity. This also is the line of maximum speed attainable for the particular slope the skier finds himself on. Often the rate of speed thus accumulated is not easily managed and frequently becomes hazardous for an individual not accustomed to such speed.

It is perfectly feasible to take some slopes in a straight run, provided they are neither too steep nor too long, and offer a gradual run-out. Alas, in nature's realm, such ideal conditions rarely exist, for there are constant variations in the pitch of a slope; there are trees, rocks, ditches, fellow skiers, etc., confronting a runner on his downward path. The problem for any skier, therefore, is to find ways and means to control the path of his descent and with it, automatically, the ratio of speed.

If for no other reason than to protect his own safety, he will have to learn a set of maneuvers which will enable him to follow purposely, or stay away entirely from this line of maximum speed — ironically known as "the line of least resistance." He will have to learn how to avoid collision with any one of the specifically mentioned obstacles.

The ability to guide one's skis at will by harnessing this phenomenon of nature—gravity—into coordinated and controlled channels is commonly known as the technique of skiing. It can be accomplished by a combination of traverses and linked turns.

Roughly, the technique of skiing (and I am speaking of the Alpine technique as advocated by Hannes Schneider and his disciples) can be divided into the following related phases in somewhat chronological order:

(1) Walking, climbing, and falling (how to get up).
(2) Schuss (straight running stance).
(3) Snowplow and snowplow turn.
(4) Traversing and sideslipping.
(5) Stem turn.
(6) Stem christiania.
(7) High speed, tempo, or parallel turn.

DUROCHER RETAINED

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—President Ford Frick of the National league disclosed that Leo Durocher had written him proposing that Burt Shotton be permitted to manage the league's all-star team next year.

However, Frick added, Durocher's proposal was turned down.

"I received a letter from Durocher today written in California, in which he volunteered to step aside and proposed that Shotton lead the team," the league executive stated.

"Leo explained that it was Shotton who won the pennant, not he, and that Burt deserved the honor that has always gone to the manager of the pennant winning team."

Frick commented that it was "a very generous and sportsmanlike gesture," on the part of Durocher, but added:

"My recent decision that the incumbent manager of the championship team shall be the all-star team leader still stands."

KEWANEE, Ill., Dec. 30 (AP) — John T. Powers, 73, one of baseball's most prominent figures 35 years ago, died Saturday of a heart ailment at his home in nearby Sheffield.

He was organizer of the Federal league, professional baseball's third big league of 1914 and 1915.

Earlier, he was a southpaw catcher, playing with army teams in Cuba and professional clubs in the United States.

Powers was an intimate of such big names of the game as Clark Griffith, Joe Tinker, Frank Chance and Billy Niesen.

Rain Halts Play In Tennis Meet

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30 (AP) — Long drizzle halted play in the Sugar bowl tennis tournment yesterday and pushed back until today the singles semi-finals and the start of doubles play.

Semi-finalists Richard "Pancho" Gonzales of Los Angeles, Herbert "Buddy" Behrens, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Ted Schroeder, first seeded from Glendale, Calif., still must await the outcome of a quarter-finals match between third-seeded Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, and Gardner Larned, Chicago, who played to a two-set tie before quarter-finals play was halted Sunday by darkness.

Today's play begins with the Seixas-Larned third-set to determine who will play Schroeder. Behrens and the unseeded Gonzales, who broke into the semi-finals with a stunning upset of Gardnar Mulloy, Miami, Fla., tie up to determine which will reach the finals.

Wedemeyer to Play Football On L. A. Dons

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30 (AP)—The Los Angeles Dons of the All-America conference have signed Herman Wedemeyer of the St. Mary's Gaels to a 1948 contract, the Los Angeles Times says. The Dons' business office declined comment, although acknowledging it held exclusive rights within the conference to negotiate with the Hawaiian star as a result of the draft.

CHAPPUIS INJURED

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 30 (AP)—All-America Halfback Bob Chappuis of Michigan tore a leg muscle in practice for the Rose bowl game yesterday but Trainer Jim Hunt said he thought he would be all right to play against Southern California.

Hunt, after examining the injury, said there had been a slight internal bleeding but that he hoped massages would keep blood from clogging.

The injury was above the knee at the thigh.

Few at the secret workout witnessed the mishap but one report said Chappuis was running, suddenly stopped and knelt down near the sidelines. He quietly retired to the dressing room and Hunt took over.

The team's ace passer and tailback, Chappuis' injury or loss would be a severe blow.

RAMS SIGN SHAUGHNESSY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30 (AP)—Clark Shaughnessy, football's nomadic coach and expert of the T-formation, has signed as an advisory coach for the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football league.

President Dan Reeves of the Rams made the announcement and Shaughnessy, here for the Michigan-Southern California Rose bowl game, added his pleasure in the new assignment.

"I believe there is the greatest future in football in Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Rams," Shaughnessy said.

Reeves did not disclose salary figures but said Shaughnessy's contract was "for more than one year" as advisor to Head Coach Bob Snyder.

Shaughnessy's career has been a coast to coast proposition. After guiding Tulane, Loyola of New Orlaens and Chicago, he came, west and scored brilliantly at Stanford with victory in the Rose bowl in 1941. Engagements followed at Maryland and Pittsburgh, meanwhile keeping close contact with the Washington Redskins.

LEICHT TO CLEVELAND

STOCKTON, Calif., Dec. 30 (AP)—Jake Leicht, University of Oregon football star, disclosed at his home here he had accepted a contract to play professional football for the Cleveland Browns of the All-America conference.

Leicht, backfield ace, led the Pacific Coast conference in scoring, rushing, kickoff returns and punt returns.

His salary as a professional was not disclosed, but was reported unofficially by sports writers to be around $10,000 and a bonus.

Offers to Resign

ATLANTA, Dec. 30 (AP)—Head Football Coach Wallace Butts of the University of Georgia has offered to resign after accusing State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, jr., of "distorting expenses" in connection with Butts' salary.

Thrasher recently reported that Butts received $19,749.95 during the last fiscal year, $9,499.92 as salary, $708.33 as a bonus, $6,541.70 as subsistence allowance, and $3,000 as "sugar bowl contingencies."

Butts said his salary as coach and athletic director is $12,000 annually, and declared he objected to Thrasher's inference that over $19,000 "came to me personally" the last year.

Trippi to Give Up Baseball in Grid Interest

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (AP)—Professional baseball generally and the Atlanta Crackers particularly can forget all about Charles Lou Trippi, who once thought he could make a living bouncing from the Diamond to the gridiron and back again.

"This is the game for me," cracked the former Georgia All-America halfback after he paced the Chicago Cardinals to a 28-21 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles for the National football league title at Comiskey park yesterday.

Trippi, ever since he closed the baseball season batting .334 as an Atlanta outfielder in the Southern association, complained that baseball and football don't mix—especially for a $100,000 halfback who is expected to be something of a padded ballerino on touchdown-bound legs.

He's certain now—after his two spectacular touchdown runs against the Eagles—that he'll stick to his plan to by-pass baseball.

Trippi, wearing gym shoes for the first time on the gridiron, scampered over frozen Comiskey park 44 yards from a touchdown on a quick-opening play and ran 75 yards for another with a punt.

NO SURPRISE TO MANN

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 30 (AP)—Earl Mann, president of the Atlanta Crackers, expressed disappointment but no surprise last night that Charlie Trippi would play no baseball next season.

Big Crowd Sees New Major Cage Loop Open

SHOSHONE, Dec. 30—With a capacity crowd looking on, the new South Idaho Major Basketball league got underway here last night with Oakley's Whiteley's Spuds defeating the famed Shoshone Redskins, 51-42, and Sun Valley triumphing over the Buhl Hardwares, 54-32.

The Spud-Redskin game was a battle between two former high school stars, Dallon Elquist, Oakley, who scored seven field goals and five free throws for 19 points, and Dean Bauman, who came up with eight field goals and two free throws for 18 points.

At the end of the third period, the Spuds enjoyed only a 33-30 lead.

In the Oakley lineup were a number of college stars, Grant Martin and Bob Mathews.

Buhl's inability to stop Reed Gorringe cost the Hardwares the game in their battle with Sun Valley. Gorringe scored 10 field goals and three free throws for 23 points.

P. Eastman had 11 for Buhl.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—The general direction was toward recovery in today's stock market with volume expanding on the revival.

Firming prices appeared in most departments after midday as belated tax selling for cash was taken in stride. Rails got back on the rising track. Steels, motors and selected industrials were in front. While scattered gains ranged from 1 to 2 points or so at the close, the majority of plus signs held to fractions. Activity picked up in the final hour and transfers were in the neighborhood of 1,400,000 shares.

Bonds were narrowly irregular.

'Worst Battle' Of Holy Land Strife Fought

JERUSALEM, Dec. 30 (UP)—The bloodiest battle of Palestine's war of hate was fought at a Haifa oil refinery today, with casualties officially reported as 47 persons killed and 61 wounded.

Jewish attackers hurled bombs from a speeding limousine into a line of 100 Arabs at the plant. The infuriated Arab survivors attacked their fellow Jewish employes and felled them by the score in frenzied beating, stabbing and kicking.

36 Jews, 11 Arabs Die

The dead were listed officially as 36 Jews and 11 Arabs. Of the 61 injured, 14 were Jews and 47 Arabs.

Palestine authorities credited the bombing attack on the Arabs at the Haifa consolidated refineries to the "black squad" of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, sworn to exact vengeance for every Jew slain.

Only yesterday the Irgunists threw explosives from a speeding car at the Damascus gate in Jerusalem. More than a dozen persons died in the blast and the fighting it set off.

Arabs Run Amok

After the Haifa bombing today, the Arabs ran amok. They swarmed over every Jew within reach and raced through the plant searching out those who tried to hide in offices and byways.

Scores of armed cars and police vehicles sped to the plant from their posts in Haifa to reinforce the company police who were helpless.

Guards at the plant fired over the heads of the battlers, but so intense was the frenzy of the Arabs and the desperate resistance of the Jews that the gunfire went unheeded. Finally the rampaging Arabs threatened to turn on the guards, and they had to flee for their own lives.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Albertson funeral home with the Rev. Max Greenlee, pastor of the Buhl Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be in the Buhl cemetery.

Licenses of Four Drivers Picked up

As punishment for traffic violations, Probate Judge S. T. Hamilton temporarily suspended Monday the driver's licenses of four persons.

He picked up the licenses for 30 days of Harley E. King and Rex Whitaker Reed, both Filer. They were cited for reckless driving in that they were "skidding" automobiles about Filer.

Sheldon Slagel, Gooding, had his license suspended for the same period for a stop sign violation.

Wayne Darrah, who was charged with speeding, had his license temporarily revoked until Feb. 21.

Petrillo Goes up For Second Trial

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (AP)—James C. Petrillo was called to trial for a second time today on a charge of violating the Lea act by trying to compel a radio station to hire musicians which it contended were unneeded.

Petrillo, president of the AFL American Federation of Musicians, is accused by the government in an amended criminal information of attempting to coerce station WAAF, Chicago, to hire three musicians.

Judge Walter J. Labuy dismissed the original information against Petrillo a year ago, ruling that the Lea act, often called the anti-Petrillo law, was unconstitutional.

However, the U. S. supreme court later held constitutional those sections of the law invoked, and sent the case back to Labuy for trial.

Petrillo has pleaded innocent.

Divorce Sought In Court Action

Lillian Truman Langham began divorce proceedings Tuesday in district court against Harauld Dean Langham.

She asks custody of two minor children and $150 monthly for their support as well as $10 monthly for herself.

The complaint lists community property as $4,650 in government bonds as well as household effects stored with the government in Fort Worth, Tex. The couple was married Sept. 22, 1937, in Chicago.

She alleges she took the two children to Germany where her husband was an officer with the army of occupation. He asked her to leave, she alleges, but when she attempted to go, he used "his position" to keep the children in Germany.

The complaint was filed by Chapman and Quinn.

7 Youths Held on Forgery Charges

The Erwin youths are being held in the county jail in default of $1,000 bail. The others, with the exception of one whose parents posted bond, are being held in default of $500 bail.

Demand for Labor Still Record Low

Labor demand in Magic Valley remained at the record all-time low this week with only 42 job openings listed at local Idaho state employment service offices, A. J. Meeks, Twin Falls ISES manager, announced Tuesday.

According to ISES headquarters in Boise, the Twin Falls employment situation is "critical." The only relief in the future is spring planting, the report said.

Meeks reported that all positions in Sun Valley have been filled. In the Jerome area, approximately 75 workers are idle because of reduced potato shipments.

The only positions available at the Twin Falls ISES office are jobs for women. There is a great need for registered nurses and experienced stenographers, Meeks said.

A's Leader To Make No Fast Shuffle

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (UP)—Carl R. Gray, jr., new veterans administrator, is expected to make no immediate major changes in the administration—except in the insurance division—when he takes over Jan. 1.

Veterans administration sources say that Gray is likely to undertake about a six months study of internal conditions before making any major changes in policy or personnel.

NSLI Under Attack

But Gray is reported to believe that the national service life insurance division needs immediate attention. The division has been under sharp criticism from some congressmen. Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers, R., Mass., has urged removal of Insurance Director Harold W. Breining. She is chairman of the house veterans committee.

However, veterans administration sources do not believe Gray will take that drastic a step. They say he may put much of the administrative management of the enormous insurance program under another person—probably an outsider.

Takes Oath Tomorrow

Gray will take the oath as administrator tomorrow and begin work in the new year. Meanwhile the former Chicago and Northwestern railroad vice president is trying to learn as much as possible about the job.

Keeping away from reporters, Gray has been in and out of Washington several times to confer with Gen. Omar N. Bradley, who leaves the veterans administration to return to the army where he will become chief of staff.

It also was reported around the agency that Maj.-Gen. Paul R. Hawley, who has resigned as chief medical director effective Dec. 31, may remain with the veterans administration in some other post.

Pair Good Friends

Gray, a veteran of two World wars, and Hawley served together in the European theater during the war, and are good friends. Reports indicate that Hawley would be willing to accept some parttime position which would give him a fairly strong voice in veterans administration medical care.

Hawley is generally credited with improving the veterans administration medical and surgical program, and has brought some of the nation's topmost medical men into it.

Check Given for Area Taken Off Bannock County

POCATELLO, Dec. 30 (AP)—A check for $6,529.39 presented to Franklin county officials yesterday completed financial settlement for the annexation of more than 94 square miles of Bannock county to Franklin county.

The money is revenue accrued to Franklin since the date of annexation. More than 400 residents of the territory, including Thatcher, Perry, Cleveland and Oxford, voted last year to be annexed to Franklin because their southeast Bannock communities were only 12 to 20 miles from Preston, the Franklin county seat, while Pocatello is 60 to 90 miles distant.

The area is mostly dry farmland with an assessed valuation of $838,142, and includes $468,266 in public utilities. Total valuation of Bannock county exceeds $27,000,000.

Residents of two areas in the east and south parts of Bannock will vote on annexation to Franklin and Caribou counties in the general election next year. Grace and Bancroft communities wish to join Caribou and Swan Lake residents have petitioned to join Franklin.

FFA Convention Slated for Boise

IDAHO FALLS, Dec. 30 (UP)—The executive committee of the Idaho Future Farmers of America yesterday decided to hold the annual FFA state convention in Boise in late March or early April.

The committee assisted in a leadership training meeting today and prepared tests for state farmer candidates.

Orval Hansen, Idaho Falls, state FFA president, said plans were made to have state officers visit every FFA chapter in the state.

Hardware Store In Wendell Sold

WENDELL, Dec. 30—Ross Borden sold his hardware business here to Mr. and Mrs. Ardray Parks, Nampa.

Prior to coming to Wendell Borden was associated in the hardware business in Shoshone, and purchased the Wendell business from George Smith, who had operated it since 1909.

Mr. and Mrs. Parks took over the business this week. They previously had been in the hardware business in Idaho Falls and Magna, Utah. Until other plans for housing can be made they will live in the back of the store.

Mr. and Mrs. Borden expect to spend the rest of the winter in Arizona.

VISIT RELATIVES

HAILEY, Dec. 30—Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Heckert, Heber, Utah, are visiting over the holidays with Mrs. Heckert's sisters, Mrs. Bessie Beck, Mrs. Merle Rayborn and Mrs. Fred Tomlinson, all Hailey, and with Heckert's brother, Oscar Heckert, also Hailey. They will visit at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Sheriff and Mrs. Broda Rayborn, Twin Falls, on their way home.

Musicians Go Top Speed to Beat Deadline

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—Some of America's best known musicians will spend the last day of 1947—tomorrow—making records to get under the wire ahead of James C. Petrillo's Jan. 1 ban on recordings and transcriptions.

Many already have gone through extended recording sessions in the last-minute rush to build up a backlog in advance of the ban by Petrillo and his American Federation of Musicians. However, some have been so busy with other engagements that eleventh hour recording appointments were necessary.

Build Large Backlog

Most of the recording companies plan to continue operations right up to the deadline to build up as large a backlog as possible, not only of current favorites but of unreleased tunes to be put on the market on a staggered schedule. Incidentally, a big backlog of radio "singing commercials" also is being piled up for use after the ban goes into effect.

The consensus in the recording and transcription industries seems to be that it may be six months or a year or more before the public notices any effect of the ban, which Petrillo says will be permanent.

"Destroying Selves"

Petrillo contends that when musicians make recordings they work to "destroy themselves" by reducing employment for live talent.

However, industry officials have expressed the opinion that the chief reason for the ban was the Taft-Hartley law's provisions barring further collections of royalties by the union on each record sold. Under the contract expiring Dec. 31, the union is said to have collected $2,000,000 in 1946 and probably more this year.

Residents of Filer Return From Visits

FILER, Dec. 30—Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Beam and daughter, Margaret, have returned from a visit with relatives at Glendale, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Davis, who have been visiting relatives at Lewiston, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Drake and family have returned from a holiday visit with relatives at Chelan, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hammerquist and sons, Mahlon and Emmerson, and Margaret Lawry, have returned home from a visit at Berkeley, Calif.
